LEADERSHIP ANCHORS IN UNCERTAIN TIMES

4 WAYS TO GROUND YOUR TEAM WHEN THE WORLD FEELS UNSTEADY

➤ Acknowledge the Stress

Don't gloss over what's real. People need to know it's okay to be affected by the world around them.

Example: "I know a lot of us are carrying invisible weight right now. It's okay to name that."

➤ Anchor in Purpose

When strategy shifts, purpose can still ground your team. Go back to why your work matters.

Example: "Even when our priorities evolve, our mission to serve our community stays the same."

➤ Communicate Honestly, Not Just Frequently

Don't wait until you have perfect clarity. Saying 'I don't know yet' can be more trustworthy than silence.

Example: "Here's what we know, here's what's still in motion."

➤ Support People, Not Just Productivity

Make room for real life. Offer space to breathe, flexibility, and compassion.

Example: "If you need a slower start today or a mental health day, that's okay. Let me know what else I can take off your plate."
